Customer Reviews

Bernard Grosz is a lecturer in French at the Brasshouse Language Centre, Birmingham.

This is a very very basic introductory French program -- great if you are a complete beginner, but far too simple for those looking for review or wanting to learn more than the very basics. It's a British rebranding of the "Teach Yourself" series from the US, and it has been reprinted here in the US under the new British moniker. The notebooks are a fantastic idea, with games, crosswords, and other exercises -- But the material being taught here is basic high school introductory French -- sounds, numbers, colors, days of the week, parents, greetings, street references.... the types of things you learn in your first month of French classes in high school. For most adults, a long weekend with a teach-yourself guidebook will give you more information than what you get in this package. For absolute beginners, it's a great set! You'll learn all the basics in a short period of time!... For anyone wanting a general review, it's too simple.

This is a great set for the beginner. 10 CD's, 10 booklets and a reference book. All that is needed in one box.

This has really helped develop our French, ready to return to Paris.
